OTHER RELEVANT INFORMATION

Effective May 1, 2024, Miguel López de Foronda Pérez (whom is also commonly known as Mikel López de Foronda) will assume the position of Chief Financial (“CFO”), replacing Raquel Alzaga González. Raquel is stepping down from her position to undertake new responsibilities within the Coxabengoa Group, to which the Issuer belongs.

Miguel López de Foronda has over 25 years of professional experience. Before joining Cox Energy, he served for more than 11 years as Director of Administration and Finance at Grupo Aldesa in Spain, leading the international expansion and financing of the group. His responsibilities included managing international project financing, syndicated loans, high-yield bond issuance, investor relations, internal control, M&A operations, relationships with credit rating agencies, and agreements with international investment funds. Additionally, he held key positions for over 12 years at the Official Credit Institute (“ICO”), a Spanish development bank, where he implemented various project financing schemes, including corporate financing, and served as Director General of Risks and Financial Control. He holds a degree in Economics and Business from the University of Navarra in Spain, along with an MBA from the School of Industrial Organization (“EOI”) in Madrid, Spain.

José Antonio Hurtado de Mendoza, CEO of Cox Energy, commented: “We are pleased to announce Mikel's appointment as CFO of Cox Energy. His extensive professional experience in multinational companies operating in Europe and Latin America will be an excellent addition to our team. His solid track record and leadership in the financial field will be instrumental in supporting our growth strategy in a highly competitive market full of opportunities.”
